

DON'T BE A "GRAMMAR SNOB"

"Proper" grammar is a social construct.

Next time you're about to correct someone's grammar,
consider your privilege.

'Speak good English'

'No excuses!'

'Actually...'

'I think you meant...'

NATIVE LANGUAGE PRIVILEGE

If you learn English as your first language, you're going to both understand it better and speak it more fluently. It's unfair to say that the English of those who are learning it as a second language is 'broken' or needs to be 'fixed.'